OBJECTS AND WORK OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

1. To preserve and strengthen those kind and fraternal feelings which bind together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion, and to perpetuate the memory and history of the dead.

2. To assist such former comrades in arms as need help and protection, and to extend needful aid to the widows and orphans of our deceased comrades.

3. To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America, based upon a paramount respect for and fidelity to the National Constitution and laws; to discountenance whatever tends to weaken loyalty, incites to insurrection, treason, or rebellion, or in any manner impairs the efficiency and permanency of our free institutions; and to encourage the spread of universal liberty, equal rights, and justice to all men.

F., C. AND L.

“With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right; as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation’s wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and orphans.”

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln, in whose honor "Lincoln Post, No. 3," Department of the Potomac, G. A. R., was named, was the sixteenth President of the United States. He was born at Nolin Creek, Kentucky, February 12, 1809. His grandfather emigrated from Virginia; his parents removed to Indiana in 1816, where his mother died in the fall of 1818. His early life was spent in the backwoods and surrounded by many privations. His opportunities for education and improvement were very limited, his entire school-days not exceeding one year. His boyhood and manhood were spent in the severest agricultural labor. In 1830 he moved to Illinois and in 1831 settled in New Salem; went out as Captain of a Company in the "Black Hawk" war, which lasted about three months. In 1832 he was nominated for the Legislature, but was defeated. About this time he was often employed in surveying land. In 1834 he was elected to the Illinois Legislature, and re-elected for three successive terms. He was admitted to the bar in the Autumn of 1836, and moved to Springfield, the State Capital, April 15, 1837. In 1844 he canvassed his State for Henry Clay, nominee for the Presidency. Clay was defeated, but Lincoln's canvass brought him to public notice as a Whig, and resulted in his being elected to Congress, in 1846, where he voted against the extension of slavery. From this time Lincoln grew in popularity, and in 1854 he was a recognized leader of the newly formed Republican party.

In 1856 he actively supported John C. Fremont for President, the election resulting in Fremont's defeat and election of James Buchanan. During the fall of 1858 he canvassed the State against Stephen A. Douglas, for U. S. Senator, and with him had several joint debates. In 1860 Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency by the Republican party, at Chicago, Ills., defeating Mr. Seward, Mr. Chase and other prominent candidates. In the ensuing election there were three candidates against him: Stephen A. Douglas, of Illinois; John C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, then Vice-President and afterwards a general in the Confederate army, and John Bell, of Tennessee. Mr. Lincoln received a majority of votes over each other candidate, though a million short of an absolute majority of all the votes cast. Every Southern and one Northern State voted against him. He was inaugurated President March 4, 1861. His election was followed by the secession of eleven Southern States, and a war for the restoration of the Union. As a military measure he proclaimed January 1, 1863, the freedom of all slaves in certain States and parts of States "this day in rebellion against the United States." He was re-elected to the Presidency in November, 1864.

The war ended April 9, 1865, by the surrender of Gen. Lee and his entire army to Gen. Grant. On the night of April 14, 1865, at Ford's Theater, located on the east side of Tenth, between E and F streets, N. W., this city, President Lincoln was assassinated by J. Wilkes Booth, and died the next morning at 22 minutes past 7 o'clock, in Mr. Peterson's house, 516 Tenth street, N. W. This property has since been purchased by the Government, and in the house in which Abraham Lincoln died is the "Oldroyd Lincoln Memorial Collection," consisting of over three thousand articles pertaining to the martyred President. This unique and interesting collection is owned and exhibited by Comrade O. H. Oldroyd, of Lincoln Post.

Abraham Lincoln needs no marble or bronze to perpetuate his memory, for his words and deeds live in the hearts of his countrymen. By his virtues and his martyrdom he has left a name doubly dear to all loyal and liberty-loving Americans. An appropriate closing of this brief history of the man who had charity for all, malice for none, are two verses of his favorite poem:

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud!
Like a swift flying meteor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

'Tis the wink of an eye; 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud;
Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud!

"AULD LANG SYNE."

Shall we forget those far-off days,
Which made us comrades all?
Shall we forget how swift the feet
That ran at duty's call?
Shall we forget the honored dead
That sleep beneath the sod,
Who gave their lives for liberty,
Our country and our God?

No, here we pledge fraternity
With every human life
That sang the song of vict'ry won,
Or fell amid the strife;
And when at last we answer here,
As death each name shall call,
We'll leave these ranks with charity
And loyalty to all.

HISTORY OF LINCOLN POST, NO. 3, DEPT. OF THE POTOMAC, G. A. R.

This Post was organized on the 28th of March, 1868, with sixteen charter members and Comrade Timothy Lubey as Commander. It continued in existence until December, 1874, when it surrendered its charter, with a membership of twenty-two comrades.

In the summer of 1877, Comrade Samuel E. Thomason (Past Commander of the old Post) revived Lincoln Post and its original number, "3." At that time there were but three Posts in the Department of the Potomac, viz., Nos. 1, 2, and 6.

On the 29th of September, 1877, the Post was formally re-organized and its officers elected, and Comrade Thomason was elected its commander.

The Post, from its organization in 1877, until December, 1881, met at the hall, corner of Ninth and D streets, Northwest, when it moved to Seventh and L streets, where it remained until November 15, 1893, when it moved to G. A. R. Hall, No. 1412 Pennsylvania avenue, Northwest. To-day Lincoln Post, No. 3, stands unsurpassed for its perfect work under the ritual. The muster-in service, with music, stereopticon views and the beautiful ceremony of the salute to the colors, all rendered in a most impressive manner, has given the Post a national reputation.

With a membership of over 500, it can be said of Lincoln Post that in all departments of the work under the mottoes, Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty, it strives to be in the lead, which fact has made it both popular and famous.

RULE 2. Every motion shall, if required by a comrade, be reduced to writing. No motion shall be subject to debate until stated by the Commander.

RULE 3. Before putting a question, the Commander shall ask, "Is the Post ready for the question?" No comrade rising to speak, the Commander shall put the question. RULE 4. The affirmative of a question is first put, and afterwards the negative; but in matters of routine, which are, of course, the reading of reports, petitions, memorials, or other papers, the Commander supposes the assent of the Post, and in such case is not required to put the affirmative or negative in formal manner.

RULE 5. On the call of five comrades, the majority of the Post may demand that the previous question be put, which shall always be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now ordered?" and, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendments to the main question and all further debate.

RULE 6. On the call of five comrades, the yeas and nays shall be taken.

RULE 7. If two or more comrades rise to speak at the same time, the Commander shall decide who is entitled to the floor. Every comrade who speaks shall rise, address the chair, and confine himself to the question; and, in referring to any member, use the word "comrade," and shall avoid all personality and disrespectful or indecorous language.

RULE 8. No comrade shall interrupt another when speaking, unless to call him to order, nor disturb him by rejoinder or remark, nor shall he stand up or pass between him and the Commander.

RULE 9. When a question is before the Post, no motion shall be received except to adjourn, for the previous question, to lie on the table, to postpone indefinitely, or to a certain time, to divide, to commit, or to amend.

RULE 10. Any document pertinent to a question before the Post shall be read, on the call of any comrade, unless objected to, when its reading shall be determined without debate.

RULE 11. When a question is indefinitely postponed, it shall not be acted upon during that or the next succeeding meeting.

RULE 12. No motion for reconsideration shall be received unless made and seconded by comrades who voted with the majority in the first instance.

RULE 13. When a comrade is called to order for objectionable words spoken, the words shall, if required, be taken down in writing by the Adjutant.

RULE 14. No comrade shall be present when a question concerning himself is being debated, nor shall any comrade speak to the merits of the case until the comrade concerned shall have withdrawn; but the comrade concerned shall be permitted to speak in his own defense, and have the perusal of all papers relating to the matter in question.

RULE 15. The following questions shall be decided without debate: A motion to adjourn; to lie on the table; to postpone indefinitely; for the previous question; a motion to read a paper or document pending a question; to reconsider; to take up any particular item of business. All questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, must be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

This Post shall be governed by the Rules of Order of the National Encampment, with such changes in the phraseology as will make them apply to a Post Encampment. In cases not provided for in said Rules of Order, this Encampment shall be governed by the rules laid down in Cushing's Manual.
